LEGIONAIRES TO DECIDE WHETHER TO RETAIN HOME

Commander Tells "Buddies" Post Is Displaying Lack of Spirit.

Whether to continue in "our present inefficient and slowly disintegrating manner," or to sell its present home will be the question confronting the members of the Albert J. Lentz post, American Legion, No. 202, at a regular meeting to be held next Monday evening at 7:30 o'clock in the Forty and Eight rooms, First National Bank building, Center Square.

The opinion of a number of Legionnaires, hitherto unexpressed, that the present home on York street should be sold, was crystallized at the last meeting of the post, when George W. Boehner brought the question before the members for consideration.

No action was taken at the meeting two weeks ago, and it was decided to hold over the matter until the October 19 meeting, in the meantime to notify all members of the post to be present, to give their opinions on the proposed sale of the present headquarters of the American Legion.

Commander's Letter

Today, all members of the post received a letter from A. R. Jones, the commander, urging them to attend next Monday evening's meeting, setting forth that the question of the proposed sale of the home is to be decided. The letter follows:

"Regular meeting Monday 7:30 p. m., October 19, in the Forty and Eight room, third floor, First National Bank building, Center Square.

"It was the unanimous opinion of the members present at the last regular meeting that the keeping up of our present home is a losing proposition and it will be decided at this coming meeting whether we shall dispose of our home, establishing with our equity in the property a trust fund to be used for the purchase or erection of a new home that could be made, in a measure at least, self-sustaining, or if it shall continue on our present inefficient and slowly disintegrating manner.

"The meeting will be held in the Forty and Eight room as we have no caretaker at the home at the present time and of course no heat.

"It is of course of the greatest importance that every member be present at this meeting, so that any action taken will truly represent the wishes of the majority of the membership, as it is imperative that action of some kind be taken promptly."

The present headquarters of the American Legion here was purchased by the post from C. M. Wolf in 1921, after the legion men had held their

BUCKY HARRIS STOPS HERE ON WAY TO CAPITAL

"Bucky" Harris, Washington Senators' boy manager, and seven of his teammates passed through Gettysburg at 8 o'clock this morning. They were returning to Washington after the seventh and deciding game of the world series at Pittsburgh Thursday afternoon, which the Senators lost.

At the William Zinkand gasoline stand, just east of town, the Washington ball players stopped to take on fuel for their machine. After the identity of the boy manager became known, Mr. Zinkand introduced them to his wife and some of the neighbors, afterwards presenting "Bucky" with a bouquet of flowers, which he distributed among his teammates.

The names of the seven other occupants of the machine were not learned by Mr. Zinkand.

CONDEMN DAMAGE TO MARKERS HERE

Washington Masons Issue Statement Denouncing Those Who Damaged Monuments on Field.

The Ancient and Accepted Scottish Rite of Freemasonry, Southern Jurisdiction, strongly condemned the prevalent desecration of monuments in the National Military Park here, in a statement issued at Washington Thursday.

The Southern Jurisdiction, which comprises principally the Scottish Rite membership of the southern states, displayed strong resentment at the defacing of monuments on the historic battlefield.

This is clearly reflected by the statement which reads in part: "This (defacement of monuments) is indeed unfortunate and may not be excused on the grounds that the souvenir hunters were actuated by an uncontrollable outburst of patriotic zeal which assumed expression in the desire to possess themselves of tangible evidence to show that they had visited the famous battlefield.

Heavy Losses

"Souvenir hunters have existed all ways. Some of them restrict their operations to the pilfering of petty articles such as a pullman car napkin or spoon. Others have appropriated the Gideon Bible reposing in their hotel rooms and this larceny is doubly significant. However, these are cases of such nature that no material damage is done in that the missing articles can be readily replaced, even though the Pullman company figure a distinct loss of profits at the end of the business year.

"When, however, a misguided patriot permits himself to be so overcome with emotion while standing on the historic field of Gettysburg, that nothing short of a piece of stone from one of the memorial shafts will appease his ardor, it is time for the federal authorities to step in and gently, but firmly, show him the error of his ways.

"Our country possesses many sacred shrines marking valor and heroism, and the average American is filled with a sense of awe and reverence as he surveys the field upon which

COUPLE WEDDED AT CONEWAGO

Miss Helen A. Smith, Edge Grove, and James I. Devine, cigar manufacturer of that place, were married in Conewago chapel yesterday morning at 7:30 o'clock. The ceremony was performed at a nuptial mass, celebrated by the bride's brother, the Rev. Mark J. Smith, of Georgetown University, Washington. The pastor of Conewago chapel, the Rev. John F. O'Donnell, was also present in the sanctuary.

The attendants were Miss Aimee Devine, niece, and Thomas Devine, son of the bridegroom, both of Edge Grove. The bride was attired in a dress of dark blue silk crepe and wore a black hat. The bridesmaid's dress was of dark green silk crepe and her hat a combination of the same colors.

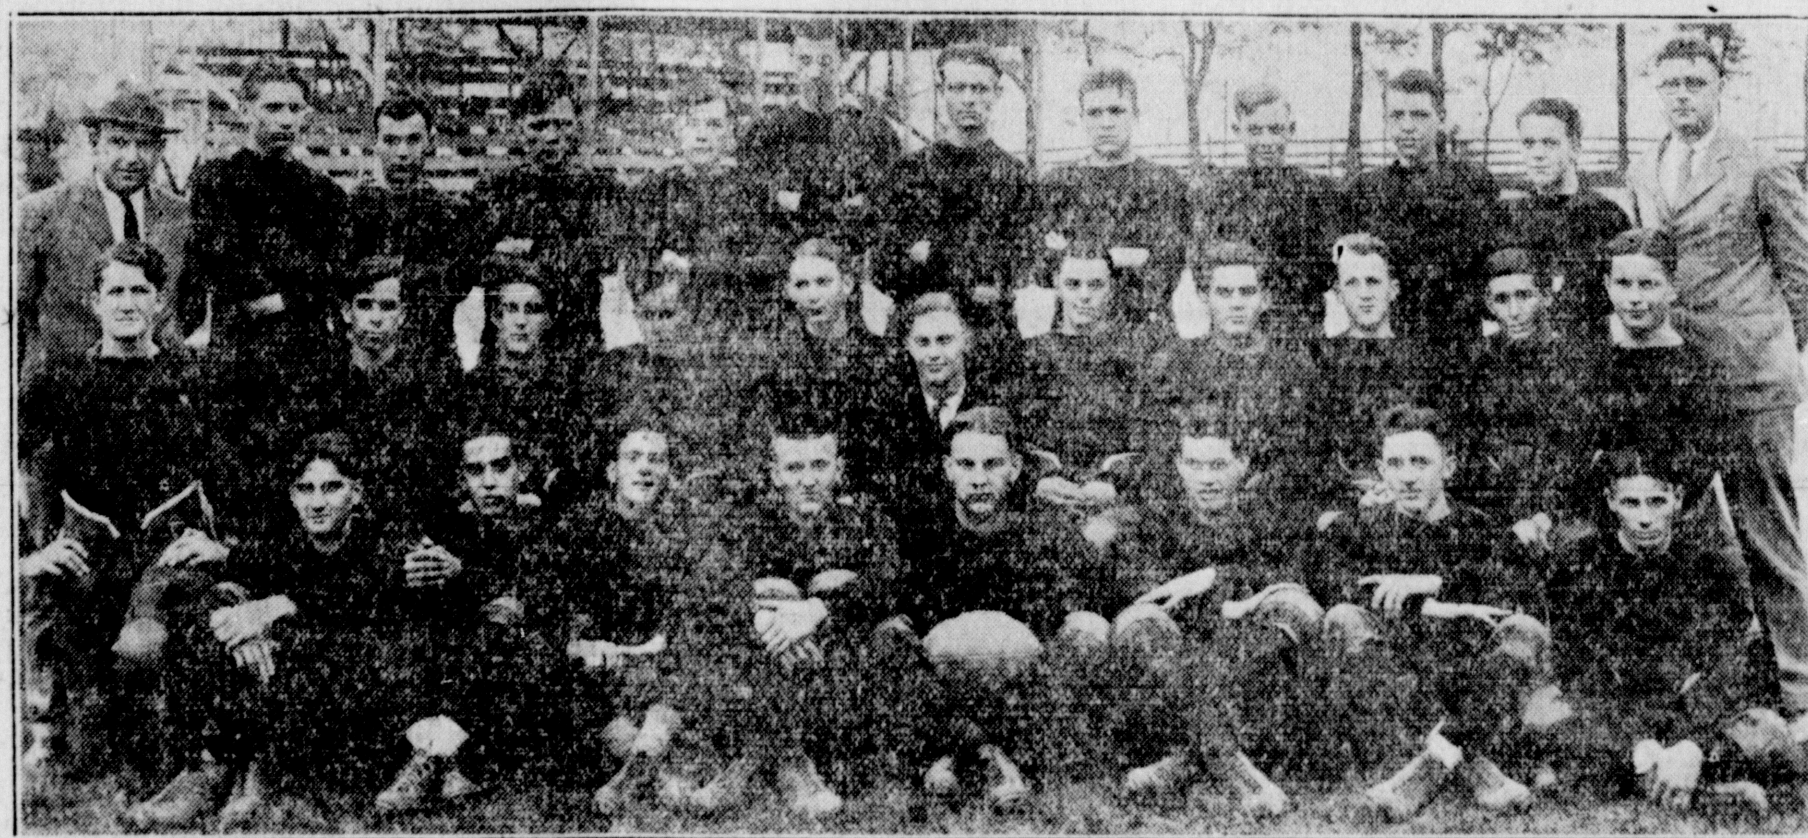

Mrs. Felix V. Staub, cousin of the bride, presided at the organ, playing the processional and recessional wedding marches. The bride's sister, Miss Mary Smith, sang "Ave Maria" during the mass.

A wedding breakfast was served to 30 guests, relatives and friends of the couple, at Mr. Devine's home following the ceremony. Mr. and Mrs. Devine left later in the day on a short motor trip. They will reside at Mr. Devine's home.

URGE COUNTIANS TO JOIN PARADE

Rural Merchants Asked to Notify Chairman Plank by Saturday Night of Appearance in Procession.

Every indication points to one of the largest parades ever held in connection with Farmers' Day, next Thursday afternoon, according to Sergeant H. F. Alderson, assistant chairman of the parade committee. Local merchants have responded in a cooperative manner to the appeal of the parade committee to enter some kind of an exhibit or display in the procession that will get under way at 2 o'clock next Thursday afternoon.

The statement was also made that if the responses continue to pour into the committee, Gettysburg and Adams county will witness one of the most unique processions ever to march through the streets of town.

Gettysburg merchants are cooperating to a full measure, said Sergeant Alderson, "but we have not had many affirmative answers from the county. We are anxious to have as many county merchants represented in the parade as possible," said the associate chairman, adding, "Those in the county who contemplate participating in the parade should notify Chairman Allen B. Plank, not later than Saturday evening of this week. This will give the committee an opportunity to line-up the paraders and exhibits in their respective sections, in order to have the procession move on scheduled time and in good order."

College Band Concert

Four bands have been definitely secured and the entertainment committee is negotiating for four more. Music and plenty of it is the slogan of the entertainment committee and if its plans materialize countians will see the largest number of bands to participate in any single parade ever held in town.

High Warriors Primed for Chester Tilt on Playground Lot Saturday

Pep Meeting To Be Held In High School Auditorium Tonight At 7 O'clock. Chester Arrives This Evening; Will Tour Battlefield In Morning; Squad Made Up Of 30 Men.

With the Gettysburg College football team on its way to Pittsburgh to battle the Panthers Saturday afternoon, the premier attraction in Gettysburg will be the Gettysburg High-Chester High football game at 2 o'clock on the Playground lot.

The local club is primed for its tilt with the strong Chester aggregation. The visitors come here with a team ranking among the best around Philadelphia and are confident of taking the Maroon and White warriors into camp. They arrive here this evening with a squad of 30 and a large delegation of fans is expected to follow them into the Battlefield town Saturday morning. The visiting team and substitutes will spend the night at Hotel Gettysburg and will tour the battlefield in the morning.

Coach Reynolds sent his club through only two practice periods this week. Monday the team members were given their usual weekly night off. Tuesday the warriors were put through a stiff scrimmage and signal

ASKS $300,000 "GAS" DAMAGES

Former College Student Here Sues Standard Oil Company For Impairment of Health.

Charles A. Fahey, of Elmora, New Jersey, a student at Gettysburg College in 1920 and 1921, on Thursday filed suit in the New Jersey state supreme court at Elizabeth, New Jersey, against the Standard Oil Company for $300,000 damages for alleged impairment of health while working in the terta ethyl laboratories of the company's Bayonne plant.

Fahey, a member of the Alpha Tau Omega fraternity, was a popular student here, being well-liked by a host of friends at college and in town.

After leaving college, Fahey went to New York City where he studied law for a while, after which he was engaged in the insurance and real estate business. Later he went to work for the Standard Oil Company at Bayonne in the manufacture of terta ethyl gasoline, sometimes called "looney gas."

Tetra ethyl lead used in the manufacture of the gasoline was alleged to have caused five deaths and to have poisoned a score or more of workers a year ago.

Fahey was injured in an explosion at the terta ethyl plant and is said to have been ill for many months afterward, having been poisoned by some of the "looney gas."

Manufacture of the gas has been stopped pending investigations by New Jersey and Federal authorities.

MERCHANTS OF 2 STREETS DONATE GENEROUS PRIZES

Baltimore And Carlisle Street Business Men Announce Farmers' Day Awards.

Baltimore street and Carlisle street merchants who will give prizes for displays in their stores on Farmers' Day, October 22, are announced today by the premiums and awards committee of the day's celebration, sponsored by the Gettysburg Chamber of Commerce.

The premiums to be offered, by Chambersburg and York street merchants and business people in the outlying sections of the town and community will be announced in the news columns of The Times Saturday and the complete list will again be published in the advertising columns of this newspaper Monday, it is further announced.

The aim of the committee has been to get the list before the rural residents of Adams county at the earliest possible moment in order to give the farmers an opportunity to study the lists, and sufficient time to prepare their exhibits in the most attractive manner in order to compete for the prizes offered next Thursday.

Generous Prizes

The value of the prizes offered this year, it was stated at a meeting of the premiums and awards committee at the Hotel Gettysburg Thursday afternoon, will exceed previous years.

This committee met with the finance committee and the general chairman of Farmers' Day. The finance committee workers reported that merchants and business people in general are contributing generously to the fund to provide prizes and entertainment for the farmers of the county. It was emphasized by the general chairman, Roy P. Funkhouser, that this is one day in the year that Gettysburg business people have an opportunity to show their appreciation to the rural folk for their patronage and friendship and that it is not intended primarily as a day of profit making or big sales.

All of the various committees are functioning toward making Farmers' Day this year a gala event, Chairman Funkhouser stated, and there is every indication that it will exceed similar events in previous years in every respect. There will be something interesting in the way of entertainment from early morning until midnight. Mr. Funkhouser said, and the farmers are urged to bring their families early and arrange to stay late in order to enjoy all the festivities.

Baltimore street merchants and Carlisle street merchants have offered the following prizes:

NEW TURN IN W. M. WALKOUT

The United States Railroad Labor Board yesterday entered the strike situation on the Western Maryland Railway and cited railroad heads and union chiefs who have been in controversy over wage scales and working rules to appear before the board at 2 p. m. Monday, according to an Associated Press dispatch from Chicago. Engineers, firemen and hostlers on the road went on strike at 6 a. m. yesterday as the result of a failure to reach an agreement with the railroad in the wage and working conditions dispute.

Receipt of Summons Denied
Ben Hooper, chairman of the Labor Board, was reported to have notified the rail officials and the strikers by telegram to bring their problem before the board. Both sides, however, denied last night that they had received any summons from Mr. Hooper, and declined to say what their attitude toward such a hearing would be.

Both railway officials and union leaders declared the results of the first day of the strike had been satisfactory from their viewpoints. No disturbances occurred in Gettysburg.

Release Pheasants On Open Grounds

In connection with the releasing of ringneck pheasants by Leo C. Bushman, county game warden, it was inadvertently stated that the birds would be released on lands closed to hunting. This was incorrect, and should have read on lands open to hunting, since it is the desire of the state game commission to give sportsmen of Adams and other counties in the state the best hunting possible, and that could not be done if the pheasants were liberated on lands where hunting is prohibited.

The party arrived here Wednesday evening in a special train, and left Thursday morning.

COUPLE KILLED BY JEALOUS MAN

Milwaukee, Wisconsin Officers Scour City For Suspect; Lives Had Been Threatened.

(By Associated Press.)

Milwaukee, Oct. 16.—Search for the "love tryst slayer" who shot and killed a girl and her sweetheart in a lonely field near Kenosha centered in Milwaukee today when police received information that a Milwaukee man had threatened the life of the girl and the man. Police were watching the suspect's home.

While the bodies of the victims, Madeline Latimer, 19, Milwaukee, and James Sears, 23, Kenosha garage proprietor, lay in the county morgue, the slain girl's twin sister, Evelyn, revealed that her sister had been in terror of the Milwaukee man for several days.

Possibility that a jealous woman may have played a part in the tragedy also was revealed by the girl's friends, who said she had spoken of receiving frequent threats from a girl who had been disputing her claim on the affections of Sears.

Belief that the slaying may have been a murder and suicide was dispelled by the sheriff who said the two met their death in the hands of a third party, who escaped after burying the bodies in a pile of cabbage leaves and debris.

The crime was discovered yesterday after a search had revealed Sears' abandoned and blood-spattered auto on a lonely road.

THREE TRAINMEN KILLED IN WRECK

Pittsburgh, Oct. 16.—Official reports of the wreck of Pennsylvania passenger train No. 531, Wheeling to Pittsburgh local, near Wheeling Wednesday show that three trainmen were killed, and that while practically every passenger was bruised or shaken up, not one was hurt seriously.

Oliver D. Hays, road foreman of engines of the Wheeling division, Wheeling, W. Va.; Michael Doherty, engineer, Steubenville, Ohio, and W. C. Bailey, fireman, Steubenville, were listed as dead by the company. They were in the locomotive when it was derailed.

At first believed to have been crushed to death in the wreckage of the baggage coach, L. O. Young, of Carnegie, Pa., the baggage master, was found to be only slightly hurt. He was in one of the coaches when the crash came.

Three relief trains and ambulances were sent to the scene from Wheeling, and company officers said that anyone needing hospital attention would be taken to that city.

The wreck occurred two and one-half miles east of Wheeling at a place known as Richmond Mine. The locomotive and baggage car and two coaches left the rails and turned over on their side. The three trainmen who met death were believed to have been scalped.

Company officials explained that Hays, the foreman of engines, was riding the locomotive on an inspection trip.

Didn't Care For Ship Testifies Sub Survivor

(By Associated Press.)

Boston, Oct. 16.—"I don't give a damn for the ship but I am sorry for the boys," Captain John H. Diehl, commander of the City of Rome, said to Michael Lira, the first of the three survivors of the S-51, to be taken aboard the steamer, the latter testified today before the naval board of inquiry which questioned him about his conversations with the Rome officers.

Lira said that the crew of the City of Rome's lifeboats almost swamped their craft when they picked him off of the water after the submarine sank. The witness said that the lifeboats search for survivors lasted only 20 minutes.

MILLION VOTES CAST IN PRIMARY

J. E. B. Cunningham, Harrisburg, Won Three Party Nominations As Judge Of Superior Court.

The official vote cast in the primary election for nominations for judge of superior court, announced at the state bureau of elections, shows that the names of only two nominees will appear on the November ballots for this office, Jesse E. B. Cunningham, Harrisburg, former deputy attorney general, won Republican, Prohibition and Socialist nominations. William A. McGuire, Johnstown, won the Democratic and Labor nominations unopposed.

This office was the only one in which a state-wide election was held, and it shows a total vote of 1,294,203 in the state.

Has Big Plurality
Cunningham polled 731,113 of the 1,071,303 votes cast in the Republican primary. He had a plurality of 515,411 over State Senator Albert Dutton MacDade, his nearest Republican opponent, and of 696,791 over James J. Regan, Jr., Philadelphia. His majority over the combined vote of his opponents was 390,923. The returns show 166 scattering votes.

On the Socialist ticket, Cunningham, with 147 votes, was nominated over Henry John Nelson, with 121, and McGuire, Regan and MacDade, each of whom polled less than 50. On the Prohibition ticket, Cunningham with 897 won over Charles Palmer, who had 481; MacDade, 102; McGuire, 74, and Regan, 68. There were 397 Prohibition and 278 Socialist votes scattered.

The returns show a total of 217,810 Democratic votes of which McGuire received 216,999, and 811 were scattered. As Labor party candidate, unopposed, McGuire received 2371 votes.

Missionary Society
Women Will Meet In Littlestown In '26

The Women's Missionary Society of the Gettysburg Classis of the Reformed church, in session at New Oxford, Thursday, accepted the invitation of the society of the Church of the Redeemer, Littlestown, to hold the annual meeting next April in that church.

The program, as previously announced, was carried out in full, and in addition, Miss Helen Sheely, New Oxford, sang a solo, yesterday afternoon. Mrs. A. P. Frantz, president of the society, was in charge of the sessions, in the morning, afternoon and evening. A supper was served by the New Oxford society, between the afternoon and the evening sessions.

Mrs. Annette Winter, Prospect, O., widow of a Chinese missionary to China, who was drowned about two years ago, gave an interesting address at the evening session, giving a complete picture of the work of teaching in China. Her husband had been an instructor in Huping College, Yochow City, China.

Mysterious Death
Puzzles Police

(By Associated Press.)
Lewistown, Oct. 16.—The coroner's jury conducting an inquest into the death of Andrew Yetter, 70, of Nook, Juniata county, returned a verdict that he came to his death in a "manner unknown." An autopsy showed that the death wound was inflicted by a .32 calibre rifle, the same calibre as the gun which was clamped in Yetter's hands when found dead by his wife in an out building. The district attorney said there was little evidence that showed foul play, but others do not give much credit to the suicide theory.

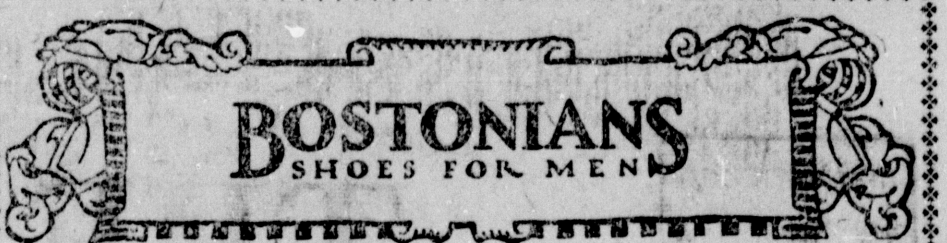

BOMB WRECKS CHURCH

(By Associated Press.)
Chicago, Oct. 16.—The Bethesda Baptist church, a large community center, in the southside negro district, was damaged in an explosion of a dynamite bomb early today. The loss is estimated at $100,000.

STORIES OF CHANCE

by Rex Beach

Published by Arrangement with First National Pictures, Inc., and Frank Lloyd Productions, Inc.

THE STORY THUS FAR

Arriving as a miner to dig for gold in the Yukon, Pierce Phillips meets up with many strange persons on the trail across Chilcot Pass to Linderman. First it is 'Poleon Doret, a giant French-Canadian, then Tom Linton—and then the beautiful Countess Courteau.

He assists the Countess back across the Pass and arrives at the camp of the McCaskey brothers just as they are all arrested under suspicion of having stolen provisions from the other miners. At a hasty mob meeting the McCaskey brothers wrongly accuse Phillips of having committed the theft. And despite the protests of 'Poleon Doret all guilt points in his direction, so skillfully have the McCaskeys covered their own trail. Mob rule prevails when Phillips attempts to explain his innocent participation.

Phillips went on with his story and told of spending the night with Tom Linton, then of his return to Sheep Camp to learn that he had been robbed of all his savings. Corroboration of this misfortune he left to the oral testimony of the two brothers McCaskey and to the circumstantial evidence of Jim's bandaged head.

Jim McCaskey was next called and Pierce made way for him. The younger brother made a poor start, but he warmed up to his own defense, gaining confidence and ease as he talked.

In the first place, both he and Joe were innocent of this outrageous charge—as innocent as unborn babes—and this air of suspicion was like to smother them. This Jim declared upon his honor. The evidence was strong, he admitted, but it was purely circumstantial, and he proposed to explain it away. He proposed to tell the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth: letting the blame fall where it would and leaving the verdict entirely up to his hearer. Joe would substantiate his every statement.

It was quite true that he and his brother had been Good Samaritans; they had opened their doors and had taken in this young man when he was hungry and homeless; but that was their habit. They had fed him, they had shared their blankets with him, they had helped him in a thousand ways, not without serious inconvenience, to themselves. Why, only on the day before the speaker himself had volunteered to take the young man's earnings to Dyea for safekeeping, thereby letting himself in for an unmerciful mauling, and suffering a semi-fractured skull, the marks of which would doubtlessly stay with him for a long time.

Phillips had left camp early the previous morning, to be sure, and he had not come home until an hour or two ago, but where he had gone, how he had occupied himself during his absence, where he had spent the night, of course the speaker had no way of knowing. Phillips was often absent at night; he came and he went at all hours, and neither Joe nor the witness ever questioned him, believing his statements that he was packing the bags. Neither his brother nor he had ever seen that sack of rice until it was uncovered by the posse, and as for the other plunder, it was all there and named of no outfit which they had been assembling since that time. They supposed, of course, that he had bought it, but he fit with his earnings.

"That's all we've got to say," concluded the elder of the precious pair when he had finished. "You can believe for yourselves who did the stealing. Jan and I've got all the truth we want; this fellow hasn't."

"Have you anything to say for yourself?" The chairman addressed himself to Phillips.

"I have," Pierce again took the stand. "You're making a great mistake," he said, earnestly. "These men have lied; they're trying to save themselves at my expense. I've told you everything, now I demand that you wait to hear the Countess Courteau or Mr. Linton. They'll prove where I spent last night, at least."

"Mr. Chairman!" A stranger claimed general attention. "I've listened to the evidence and it's strong enough for me. The grub didn't get up and walk away by itself; somebody took it. Grub is more than grub in this country; it's more than money; it's a man's life, that's what it is. Now, then, the McCaskeys' had an outfit when they landed; they didn't need to steal; but this fellow, this dirty ingrate, he hadn't a pound. I don't swallow his countess story and I don't care a hoot where he was last night. Let's decide first what punishment a thief gets, then let's give it to him."

"Hear! Hear!" came the cry. "Hanging is good enough for thieves!" shouted the choleric individual who had so pointedly made known his distrust of Lucky Broad. "I say stretch 'em."

"Right! Let's make an example!" "Hang him!" There rose a hoarse chorus of assent to this suggestion, whereupon the chairman stepped forward.

"All those in favor of hanging—" he began. But again he was interrupted by 'Poleon Doret, who once more bored his way into the crowd, crying:

"Wait! I got something to say." He was breathing heavily, as if from a considerable exertion; perspiration stood upon his face; his eyes were flashing. He vaulted lightly to the platform, then flung out his long arms, crying: "You hack lak crazee mans. Wat talk is dis 'bout hanging in? You ain't wild hanimals!" The red-faced advocate of the noose who had spoken a moment before answered him in a loud voice: "I paid hard money for my grub and I've packed every pound of it on my back. You can take a man's life by stealing his matches the same as by shooting him. I want to see thieves on the end of a rope."

Doret bent down to him. "All right, m'sieu! You want blood; we give it to you. Bring on dat rope. I'll put it on dis boy's neck if you'll do de pullin'. For me, I ain't care 'bout killin' nobody, but you—you're brave man. You hang on tight while dis boy he keeck, an' strangle, an' grow black in de face. It's goin' mak you feel good all over!"

"Rats! I won't do the trick, but—" "Somebody mus' do de pullin'." 'Poleon grinned. "He ain't goin' hang himself. Mebbe you got pardner wat lak give you hand, eh?" He raised his head and laughed at the crowd. "Messieurs, you see how 'tis. It tak' brave man to hang a feller lak dis. Some day policeman's goin' to come along an' say: 'By Gar, I been lookin' for you long tam. De new judge at Dyea he tell me you murder a boy at Sheep Camp. S'pose you come wit' me an' to little hangin' yourself.' No, messieurs! We ain't Himjuns; we're good sensible peoples, eh?"

Lucky Broad uttered a yelp of encouragement. "Hangin' sounds better 'n it feels," he declared. "Think it over, you family men. When you make your stakes and go home, little Johnny's going to climb onto your knee and say, 'Papa, tell me why you hung that man at Sheep Camp,' and you'll say, 'Why, son, we hung him because he stole a sack of rice.' Like hell you will!"

'Poleon Doret regained public attention by saying, "Messieurs, I got spruce for you." He lifted himself to his toes and called loudly over the heads of the assembled citizens, "Dis way, madame." From the direction he was looking there came a swiftly moving figure, the figure of a tall woman with straw-gold hair. Men gave way before her. She hurried straight to the tent platform, where 'Poleon leaned down, took her beneath her arms, and swung her lightly up beside him. "Madame de Countess Courteau," he announced; then with a flourish he swept off his knitted cap and bowed to the new-comer. To those beneath him he cried, sharply, "Tak' off dose hat or I knock dem off."

The Countess, too, had evidently made haste, for she was breathing deeply.

The Countess, too, had evidently made haste, for she was breathing deeply. She flashed a smile at Pierce Phillips, then said, so that all could hear:

"I understand you accuse this young man of stealing something last night. Well, he was in Linderman. He brought me over today."

"We don't care so much about the rice; this stealing has been going on for a long time," a bystander explained.

"True. But the rice was stolen last night, wasn't it? The man who stole it probably stole the other stuff."

"They're two to one," Pierce told her. "They're trying to saw it off on me."

The Countess turned and stared at the McCaskey brothers, who met her look defiantly. "Bah!" she exclaimed. "I haven't heard the evidence, for I was on my way to Dyea when Mr.—" She glanced inquiringly at 'Poleon.

He bowed again. "Doret," said he. "Napoleon Doret."

"—when Mr. Doret overtook me, but I'm willing to wager my life that this boy isn't a thief." Again she smiled at Phillips, and he experienced a tumult of conflicting emotions. Never had he seen a woman like this one, who radiated such strength, such confidence, such power.

It was the elder McCaskey who next claimed attention. "We've made our spiel," he began; then he launched into a repetition of his former statement of facts.

When the elder brother had concluded, the Countess again addressed the meeting. "You take it for granted that Phillips did the stealing because he needed grub," said she. "As a matter of fact he wasn't broke, he had a thousand dollars, and—"

"Say! Who hired you to argue this case?" It was Jim McCaskey speaking. He had edged his way forward and was scowling darkly at the woman. "What's the idea, anyhow? Are you stuck on this kid?"

BATTLES MAD DOG TO SAVE CHILDREN

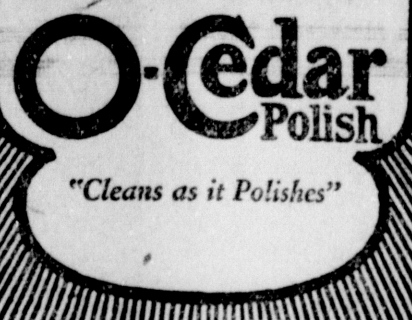

Austin, Texas, Oct. 16.—Suffering from badly lacerated arms and hands caused by bites of a dog afflicted with rabies, Miss Katie Lacy, a teacher in the State Orphans' Home, at Corsicana, arrived at the State Pasteur Institute here to receive preventive treatment. Accompanying her were twenty of the orphan children of the home, all of whom had been bitten by the dog.

The heroism of Miss Lacy saved many others, it is declared by R. B. Walthall, member of the State Board of Control.

Walthall said that when the dog attacked a large group of children playing upon the campus Miss Lacy, attracted by their cries, ran to the spot and grappled with the dog, crying to the children to run to safety. The dog tore her arms and hands, but she held on and dragged it across the campus to a covered box into which she dropped it.

A STATEMENT

To: The Voters of Adams County.

Judge Donald P. McPherson possesses in a marked degree all of the qualifications for capably fulfilling the important office of a judge.

He is gifted by nature with the judicial temperament.

He has a thorough knowledge of the law, but more important than the mere knowledge of it, he has the capacity and has learned through ten years of experience how to apply it in a given case. He has been a fair judge. During his present term he has decided more than one hundred and fifty cases which could have been appealed by the unsuccessful parties to a higher Court. His decisions were appealed from in only twenty-one cases. In only two instances were his decisions reversed. This constitutes a record worthy of any judge.

There is no question as to his ability; his honesty; his fairness; his good moral character or his personal and business integrity.

His career while an active member of the bar was above any professional or personal criticism.

He is a native of Adams county and has lived here throughout his entire life.

He is a comparatively young man. His health is good. He is of sober and careful habits. There is every prospect that he will enjoy both the physical and mental capacity necessary to serve the county for a full additional term of ten years.

He has given definite pledges, both privately and by public announcement, that if re-elected he will not accept and will not qualify himself to receive any judicial pension. In this pledge we have absolute confidence. On this subject it may be stated that the opposing candidate is in the sixty-seventh year of his life; is now older than was either Judge McClean or Judge Swope when they retired from the bench. If Mr. Benner, the opposing candidate, were elected, he could at any time within the next ten years, in the event of disability due to age or illness, upon his own request be permitted to resign his office of judge and under the Act of Assembly providing for judicial pensions, Mr. Benner would thereafter receive the full salary of the office for the remainder of the full ten years term for which he now seeks election. Upon such resignation another judge would be appointed to fill his office by the Governor without the people of Adams county having any opportunity to voice their choice for the office. This district would then have a retired judge receiving the full salary of the office for the entire ten year term as well also an active judge receiving the full salary of the office during the same term.

In making a selection between Judge McPherson and his opposing candidate we urge you to bear in mind that Judge McPherson has proven to be an able, courageous and impartial judge.

(The foregoing is published at the direction of a committee of various members of the Bar of Adams county).

Chairman.

THE TRAGEDY OF A BAD HABIT

Oh, there is a little girl with brown hair that doesn't curl
And a saucy little twinkle in her eyes,
And this pretty little maid is in danger, I'm afraid,
Of a punishment which little girls despise.
Oh, I write this in despair, as I sit and watch her there,
For I fancy I can hear her as she wails,
And I shudder through and through at what mother's said she'll do
If she doesn't stop that biting of her nails.

It's no use, it seems, to scold such a lovely 3-year-old,
And all argument and threatening is vain,
So her mother has declared something bitter is prepared
If she ever sees her doing it again;
She will paint those finger tips with a dose which once she sips
She'll remember. It's a cure which never fails,
Says her mother, solemn-faced:
"She'll learn just how aloe's taste
If she doesn't stop that biting of her nails!"
But that lovely little miss gives her

doting dad a kiss
And seems to pay no heed when mother scolds,
While her dad is sittin' near she has not the slightest fear
Of the punishment the future plainly holds;
To that little girl in vain I have tried to make it plain
What a tragedy her dreadful vice entails,
And I dread that day of woe, for she'll meet it soon, I know,
If she doesn't stop that biting of her nails.
Health is the vital principle of bliss.

Dear Folks:

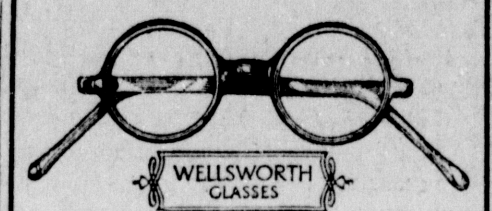

Couldn't make no splash last year count of not having no place to hold the doin's but the fellers have rented the town hall so tell maw to dust off'n her korsets and tell paw to throw a chunk of 600w in the ol' flivver 'cause we're goin' to make her hum. Goin' to have the old hall dekyrated up with all kinds of funny things and other fixin's and we calkilate on peddlin' out some prizes to them with the best rags. Neighbor folks from Bendersville, Arendtsville, Biglerville, Fairfield, Wenksville, Mummasburg, East Berlin, and other nice places, will be thar and we're countin' on riggin' up a snack a somethin' to eat, besides Isaih Tootleberry's promised to tote in a couple a bar'l o' cider. City galoots, with thar extry trimmin's will have to keep off'n the floor fur we don't want them mixin' in with our doin's. It's gonna take place next Thursday nite in the new Hotel Gettysburg hall right after the big Farmers' Day celebrashun an' its only gonna kos five nikkels. We want you all to kum.

Kommittee

P. S.—We have hired a fiddlin' band. Reckon you'd better put on your hum-spuns 'cause if you wear somein' like circus duds the constabuul'll treat you ruf—you know he 'spects Karnival guys awful. Doin's will start at 8 o'clock.

gallant Americans offered up their lives, or stands before a beautiful marble shaft commemorating the noble deeds of his country's martyred sons. And thus it should be. The desire to obtain a piece of concrete evidence of American valor is far from being a proof of loyalty and devotion. It is nothing less than theft, even though the average souvenir hunter may not realize that he is a potential Law-Breaker.

Reproach to Citizens

"It seems almost a reproach to our citizens that it becomes necessary to place armed guards about the buildings and parks in which repose the revered relics won or sustained in the smoke of battle. But such is the case and imperatively so. It matters not whether the American patriot in his pilgrimage to the shrines of his country visits Boston, Gettysburg or Richmond, whether he be from the North or the South, as both sections of our United States have evidences of American bravery and soldierly valor.

"Let us trust that the day will come, and speedily, when the throngs of patriotic pilgrims who visit our historic landmarks will by their own lawful conduct obviate the necessity of having special police officers and iron bars to guard America's sacred relics from wilful desecration!"

meetings in various rooms about town. Since the purchase of the Wolf property, the post has made numerous improvements to the place so as to better adopt the building to the uses of the legion.

The Women's Auxiliary of the Legion, which was formed shortly after the post purchased its present home, and which has been its "strong right arm" from a financial standpoint since, was allotted rooms on the second floor of the home for its use.

For some time past, meetings of the post have been very poorly attended, usually not more than 12 men being present.

Recently Mr. and Mrs. Frank Stokes, caretakers of the home, left the post home, leaving the house untenanted. There is said to be a need of coal with which to heat the place this winter, and legionnaires are reported to be unwilling to employ another caretaker.

PUBLIC SALE

SATURDAY, OCTOBER 17, 1925.

The undersigned will offer at public sale at his home in Bendersville, the following:

HOUSEHOLD FURNITURE

Three piece, velvet overstuffed suite; four piece, wicker suite; solid walnut, tapestry, upholstered suite, six pieces, antique; solid walnut mahogany table; bed; four bed room suites, one of them contains a walnut four poster bed, with silk floss box spring mattress, with a five inch pad; several solid oak bed room chairs; new drophead Singer sewing machine; several rockers, porch chairs, etc.; three oak stands, 9x12; oriental rug, Japanese pattern; several yards of Brussels and tapestry carpet, also some homemade carpet; drop leaf table, solid walnut; several kitchen chairs; office appliances two office desks, one roll top; two filing cabinets; four oak office chairs; several acetylene light fixtures and shades.

One rubber tire buggy, good as new; covered spring wagon. Garden tools; wheelbarrow; some harness and sleigh bells; large garden plow.

Number of jugs, from half gallon to five gallon sizes, both stone and glass; kitchen range; three burner coal oil stove; heater; large refrigerator.

Sale will begin at 2 o'clock P. M. Terms will be made known day of sale by taker.

DR. E. C. HAWKINS

There is a balance of $2000 due on the purchase price of the house, but each year since the place was bought, the post has succeeded in reducing its obligation.

40-8 Opens Doors

The Forty and Eight, an auxiliary organization of the legion, is said to be willing to have the post use its rooms in the First National Bank building at a nominal rental, and is also ready to throw open its room for meetings of the women's auxiliary.

In recent months, the Forty and Eight appears to be a growing organization, although membership in it is limited only to members of the legion. Its humorous initiation ceremony is said to be one of its biggest drawing cards.

For some time, the legion endeavored to make its present home self-sustaining by opening a canteen in a small building adjoining its property, but this failed to bring in the revenue expected, and was subsequently closed.

TIME TO FACE THE FACTS

"So much has been said against the use of patent medicines that I have had a strong prejudice against them. But after four years doctoring with six different doctors, without results, for acute indigestion, gastritis, constipation, appendicitis and other ailments, I was said to possess, I was encouraged to try Mayr's wonderful Remedy, seeing what it had done for a friend similarly afflicted. I also was entirely relieved of my trouble, and am sure this medicine will do all and more than is claimed for it." It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. One dose will convince or money refunded at People's Drug Store and druggists everywhere.—adv.

NEW LAMP BURNS 94% AIR BEATS ELECTRIC OR GAS

A new oil lamp that gives an amazingly brilliant, soft, white light, even better than gas or electricity, has been tested by the U. S. Government and 45 leading universities and found to be superior to 10 ordinary oil lamps. It burns without odor, smoke or noise—no pumping up, is simple, clean, safe. Burns 94% air and 6% common kerosene (coal oil).

The inventor, S. K. Johnson, 642 N. Broad St., Philadelphia, is offering to send a lamp on 10 days' FREE trial, or even to give one FREE to the first user in each locality who will help him introduce it. Write him today for full particulars. Also ask him to explain how you can get the agency, and without experience or money make $250 to $500 per month.—adv.

Constipation causes blotchy complexion—get relief with Kellogg's ALL-BRAN

Permanent relief and improved appearance brought to thousands.

Constipation is a serious, insidious disease. Over forty dangerous diseases can be traced to it. And minor ills, such as unpleasant breath, headaches, blotchy complexion.

Don't let constipation send its poisons into your body, not even for one day. Get permanent relief with Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. It has brought health to thousands—after people have suffered for years, and all else has failed.

It will bring sure relief to you! Kellogg's is ALL BRAN. That is why doctors recommend it. That is why it is guaranteed to be permanently effective, if eaten regularly, or the purchase price will be returned by your grocer. Nothing but ALL-BRAN brings sure relief in the most chronic cases.

Eat at least two tablespoonfuls daily—in chronic cases, with every meal. Delicious with fruits. Try it in muffins, and other recipes given on every package.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is nature's own way of cleaning the intestine. It is made in Battle Creek, Michigan, and served at leading restaurants everywhere. Your grocer sells it.
